How language differs across modality, and ways in which spoken and signed languages are fundamentally the same. Topics include: the structural organization of language ("phonology," morphology, and especially syntax); mental representation, acquisition, variation, change; and some consequences of modality differences.

Prereq: CAS LX 250 or equivalent. No knowledge of American Sign Language or any other signed language is presumed.